Absent minded but think about everything venerability versus desperation
The universe has no north
-A world of opinions based on privileges or hurts
-They said I was crippled so I said fuck it found my own path (build them stairs)
-I wonder if Iran is going to attack during Election Day
-Successful black men with average white women
-White women with a fat ass
-When you have tension over ANYTHING an argument can come over anything
-I think about death everyday I think about it as a reminder to live
-Dark oppression vs black oppression
-Willing vs wanting
-White middle upper middle class women who advocate for socialism and imagination against capitalism is black men making money but never speak to their fathers who rally against the death tax
I rather fail on my ideas than succeed on someone else
I love that shit too much for you to not care

To be in a revolution you must be optimistic

Short term suffering long term gains

The few words that could be heard was very contained and dry

My presence is a blessing

I have common sense they don't have that

That's the wrong question for my answer that I prepared so I'm gonna answer my own question

Success has a hundred fathers and defeat is an orphan

Communication is how you think

Don't be careful be competent

People don't have a shared base of knowledge

You are just who you are at this point in your life

I don't believe in fundraisers I believe in systemic and cultural changes

You can't control what you feel about someone but you can control what you do with those feelings

The dollar you held in 1998 is worth 51 cents

Infinite growth cannot exist on a planet with limited resources

Skin in the game

Some people can't stand you if you don't see them as your hero

Trust and attention is scarce commodities

What they want is continuity with the status quo

I don't give you enough information to think

There is a difference between nostalgia and using the past to inform your future

In between two worlds that I belong

All we have Marvin is all these years and it ain't just enough

It's a time of great uncertainty or if you are an optimistic great promise

It's the human condition to normalize and find our footing in any situation
